FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Ras Al Khaimah Art 2027 Festival Opens Submissions for "Lost in Translation"

Ras Al Khaimah, United Arab Emirates, 24 April 2026: Ras Al Khaimah Art has announced the open call for its 2027 Festival, inviting artists from the United Arab Emirates and around the world to respond to the theme Lost in Translation.

The theme explores how meaning shifts as ideas move across languages, cultures, and contexts, considering both what is lost and what is reimagined in the process. Artists at all stages of practice—including emerging artists, established practitioners, filmmakers, and students—are encouraged to engage with perspectives such as identity, migration, memory, and technology, working across mediums including photography, painting, drawing, sculpture, installation, video art, and short film.

"Lost in Translation invites artists to reflect on how meaning is shaped and reshaped across different contexts," said Suqrat bin Bisher, Art Director of Ras Al Khaimah Art. "We welcome submissions across all mediums, with a particular interest in sculptural and immersive works that engage audiences in new ways, alongside strong participation in the student category from schools across the UAE."

Ras Al Khaimah Art is the flagship arts initiative of the Sheikh Saud bin Saqr Al Qasimi Foundation for Policy Research. For the 2027 edition, selected works will be presented as part of a curated program of exhibitions, installations, and live experiences at Al Jazeera Al Hamra Heritage Village. In addition to the main festival open call, Ras Al Khaimah Art has announced a separate open call for the RAK Ceramics Design Contest, developed in collaboration with RAK Ceramics and RAK Porcelain, inviting designers to submit concepts in the categories of tiles and tableware.

The 2027 open call also coincides with a refreshed visual identity for Ras Al Khaimah Art, inspired by the emirate's natural landscape—where mountains meet the sea—as reflected in the updated logo. The new branding emphasizes clarity, transparency, and a modern visual language, reinforcing the festival's distinctive sense of place.
